

Congress gives wings to Silent Spring

Silent Spring Institute will receive $350,000 from the federal government to continue its research on the environmental links to breast cancer on Cape Cod. The Institute has begun notifying participants in a long-term study of historical exposure to contamination in tap water about the levels of 89 airborne and water contaminants in homes tested this summer.

Patriot 11/26/04