

Cape Cod on road to ruin

I think the most important environmental issue at greatest risk here on the Cape is the water. How can we keep cutting the forest, building the buildings, add tons of chemicals to all the golf courses, and expect to have enough filter for our waters to be safe to use?

Already there is proof that the small lakes and ponds do not have enough oxygen. Does it take a committee to figure these things out? Don't we feel a need to take care of our land?

Husbandry of the land has always been a top priority for most owners/dwellers of property. I've never seen so much greed, waste and ruining of land as I've seen here, and I've been here only five years.

CYNTHIA SWEENEY
Monument Beach